Introducing Our Family

Myrtle
“Walli”
Burnell,
Resident

Walli is a smart and funny 93 year old lady.

She has three children and many grandchildren. She is one of 9 children and says she got along well with her siblings and has learned a lot from them and they learned a lot from her. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree and later, a Masters degree in social work, both from UBC. In her professional life, she followed various career paths. Walli worked as a social worker, taught geography and literature in a small school, as well as taught Morse code in the Air Force. While she was growing up (although she questioned if she ever really grew up), Walli lived in Ontario and Quebec and moved often. Later, she moved to BC to be with her husband. Her favourite place to visit is McGregor Lake in Quebec and she went there as often as she could. She said she liked to visit the prairies, but she wouldn't want to live there permanently. She likes “the mountains and the valleys and the straight stretches in between”.

Walli proudly states that she has lived a full and interesting life. She enjoyed skating, skiing, swimming, and the outdoors. Her son is a pilot with a small plane, which she enjoyed going out in whenever possible.

She mentioned that she had been to some strange places and done some crazy things, but says those stories are for her to keep to herself.

Walli has always loved giving and receiving advice.

How your donation helps residents at Langley Lodge:

100 percent of a donation received is used to schedule programming of art, horticulture, music therapies and pastoral care. When specified, donations are also used to purchase items on the capital equipment wishlist.

(Introducing our Family – Cont'd)

However, the advice she followed was dependent on where she was and who she was with. Walli's most favoured piece of advice to give is “Don't be too afraid to take chances”.
