Fundraising for the Elderly

Langley Care Foundation May 2018 News

“If music be the food of love....

Langley Care Foundation is honoured to receive donations from a broad spectrum of individuals, organizations and corporations. These funds provide opportunities for our elders to participate in much loved activities that together form a basket of services referred to as Quality of Life programs.

Programs include: music, art, horticulture and pastoral care. Services can be provided to an individual and/or in a group session.

It is with heartfelt thanks that we thank our donors for supporting over 2,000 hours per year of Quality of Life services.

On April 5th, 2018 Mike Brown and Rudy Storteboom, directors of Langley Care Foundation presented $20,000 to Langley Lodge for the provision of Quality of Life services. “We will be making several donations during the year” says Foundation board chairman Mike Brown. “Seeing the rapt attention on the faces of our elders while listening to our music therapist Jeff.... inspires us to work harder and to do more each year”.

Music stimulates memory recall which contributes to satisfaction with life; promotes positive emotional states; generates awareness of self and environment; supports social interaction and language skills; and creates shared experiences with others.

...[then please], play on!”

Gerry, Foundation Board Chairman Mike Brown, Pauline, Jim, Foundation Board Director Rudy Storteboom and, Chief Executive Officer Langley Care Society Debra Hauptman participate in a music session. April 2018.
